PONIE AS A FEATURE OF THE HORSE SHOW.

Master Jack Bratton's Little Boy Perfect and Always in Time Prize Winners.

PROTEST ON NIGHT DECISIONS.

Award of Blue Ribbon to Prince Charming in Horses Suitable for Ladies to Drive Not Popular.

The ponies and the children had the afternoon at the Horse Show almost quite to themselves yesterday, and they made a high-class showing.

Little Boy Perfect and Always in Time, owned by Master Jack Bratton, swept the card in the pony class. Always in Time is the finest Shetland pony exhibited in America. He is a wonderful blue-roan of perfect conformation and appearance. Little Boy Perfect never was in better form than yesterday, when he was driven by Master Adolphus Busch, son of Mr. A. C. Busch and grandson of Adolphus Busch, John L. shown by Charles Marshall. He is also a smart pony and his trip was very stylish.

Miss Anna McLaughlin repeated her great success of the night previous when she won the class of ladies' saddle horse by her excellent riding. She defeated Mrs. Bratton, Miss May Bratton and Mrs. Jones, all finished equestriennes. Miss McLaughlin is a natural horsewoman, and her gift in that direction has had little cultivation. Mr. Auld's horse, Sir Charles, won a good class in horses to victrola.

The class for horses suitable for ladies to drive was a dull affair. Queen Victoria, shown by Charles Marshall, was the only horse to show any class. Mr. Fulkie refused to judge. Two gaited-horse judges, Gentry and Mr. Galbreath, were substituted.

When Mr. Jones's Prince Charming was given the blue ribbon there was a general protest. In the first place the horse was driven by a professional who had just competed in the coachman's class. This was a direct violation of the conditions of the class. In the next place, no lady could drive the horse, so hard is his mouth. But he got the ribbon.

Mr. Crawford's excellent mare, a perfect model of driving animal, Grace Simmons, second, showed the beautiful turnout, and was hitched to scarce could score as high as Mrs. Bratton's perfectly appointed park horse, which was driven by Mrs. Bratton. She also secured third place. Siskies should score pretty high on what he has done in the last four years and in this show, and the phantom was unbeatable.

Another apparently out of the decision was that which placed Esmeralda above King Salisbury in the class for single reinsters. The night before King Salisbury defeated a very warm ring in which was Esmeralda who took third to day. How the placing was reversed is not known.

The judges, Mr. C. threw his bay, Norton, again. Miss Coughlin, Mr. Bratton's second, was a fine exhibition of horsemanship, though riding too fast. Coughlin and King Salisbury, beating the Queen Victoria, won the class. Esmeralda, a very good jumper, John Laid, who is a very good jumper, and there was a lot of fun during the night.

NOTES ON THE AUDIENCE.

Society was not largely represented at the Horse Show last night, in comparison with the two previous evenings. The incident which probably kept many away, but few of the regular horse holders occupied their allotted inclosures, and most of the night was made up of persons who have not appeared before during the week. The gowns were less brilliant than on the previous nights, and there were some gaily-colored costumes and hats in the tiers, which lived up to the audience.

In the tier below were Mr. and Mrs. Tinker and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koehler. Mr. Koehler wore a smart French wrap, a long cape of white brocade, and a large black velvet hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Lihley made their first appearance of the week. They occupied the tier below the tier of the Koehlers. Miss Lily Belle Pierce was a guest in the tier below.

HARBOUR GENERAL OBSERVED VAN ST. LUIS.

The weather-makers conspired with municipal mismanagement to make the last Halloween of the century as dark as the previous "Halloweens" of the city.

Louis and gave the small boy and the wiles every opportunity to practice the pranks which have come to be recognized as belonging to the last night of October.

Crowds of young folks, in all kinds of fantastic dress, paraded the residence streets by the light of "jack-o'-lanterns."

There were parties in all sections of the city, and the night was generally observed according to time-honored customs.

One hundred and fifty students of the St. Louis Medical College celebrated Halloween at the hospital, where they were entertained by a performance of "The Singing Girl." They occupied fourteen rows in the center of the banquet, while members of the faculty occupied the lower boxes, which were filled with young folks of red and green ribbons, the college colors.

The medical students were quite as noisy as the children who celebrated Halloween on the streets, and they were not without exuberant spirit to interfere with the enjoyment of others in the audience, or to annoy the people on the stage. Once, however, they showed a little more respect for the doctors, and they were not so noisy.

It was at the beginning of the second act, when Miss Nielsen came on the stage wearing a box of the college colors.

The students did not utter a word of the ribbon until the singer had commenced to speak her lines. When they did they emitted a shout in acknowledgment of the compliment paid them. At the conclusion of her song, "I Had You Before," Miss Nielsen received a large bouquet of white carnations, tied with long red and green ribbons.
